DOG WALKS 272 MILES HOME — Michelle LaBef pets Salty, black and white mongrel, after the dog walked 272 miles back to its home in Detroit from Cheboygan, Mich. The girl's mother, Mrs. Margie LaBef, gave Salty away because she didn't think it was fair to keep the dog in an apartment with a number of cats.

British Police Nab 4 Men In Commons

Parliament Break-In Bid Being Probed

LONDON (AP) — Police captured four men trying to break into the House of Commons today while Scotland Yard continued its hunt for extremists who bombed the home of Employment Minister Robert Carr.

Aided by tracker dogs, 30 policemen searched Westminster Palace, the home of Parliament, after the arrests. They found glass-cutting equipment.

A custodian first spotted two men at the foot of Big Ben, the landmark timepiece that booms the hours above Parliament. He grappled with the pair while a third man dived through a window into a storeroom.

A House of Commons police officer joined the struggle. Police found the third man, dazed, in the storeroom and later arrested a fourth man on the other side of the Thames after he made off in a car.

The police threw a cordon around Parliament Square while police launches sped along the banks of the Thames.

There was no indication of any connection between the attempt to break into the House of Commons and the Carr bombing.

There was a rumor the four men were Welsh nationalists but this could not be confirmed.

A militant organization calling itself "The Angry Brigade" was at the top of Scotland Yard's list of those wanted for the Carr bombing Tuesday night. A London newspaper got a crudely printed letter saying: "Carr got it tonight... were (sic) getting closer." It was signed by The Angry Brigade.

Carr's home was blasted by two powerful time bombs, but he and his family were not hurt, and police spokesmen today said they now believe the bombs were intended to cause damage and were not an attempt on Carr's life.

Bethlehem Steel Says Price Hike Won't Be Repealed

BETHLEHEM, Pa. (AP) — The Bethlehem Steel Co. says it will go ahead with plans to boost prices of steel used in construction work and shipbuilding despite an indication from President Nixon that he might raise quotas on imported steel if the increases are implemented.

A statement released Wednesday also said the Nixon administration knew of the proposed increases in advance. The company said the administration gave no indication it "would react as strongly as it did."

The rate charges on four major types of steel, announced Monday, amount to boosts of 11 to 13 per cent. They are to take effect March 1. Bethlehem is the nation's second largest steel producer. The items involved account for one-sixth of the industry's total output.

The company said Stewart S. Cort, Bethlehem chairman, met prior to the hike announcement with Paul W. McCracken, chairman of the President's Council of Economic Advisors.

Cort advised McCracken of the pending announcement and nothing in the conversation suggested the administration would react as it did, the statement said.

"The decision to increase prices was a business judgment," it continued, "and Bethlehem has no plans to rescind."

At the Western White House, Deputy Press Secretary Gerald L. Warren confirmed that McCracken and Cort met Monday and that Cort informed McCracken of the company's intention to announce higher prices.

Nixon's press secretary, Ronald Ziegler, said Tuesday Nixon was "deeply concerned" by Bethlehem's action.

So far only a small producer Lukens Steel Co. of Coatesville, Pa., has followed Bethlehem's rate change. The Lukens decision was made before the White House comment.

The nation's largest producer, U.S. Steel has said it was studying the matter.

Tax Writeoffs Retroactive

WASHINGTON (AP) — Liberalized tax writeoffs for businesses will be effective back to Jan. 1 of this year—even though the final regulations have not been placed into effect, the Treasury Department has announced.

A spokesman for the department said Wednesday businessmen could count on the decision despite confusion over the lack of formal regulation.

The regulations will be issued under the Treasury's authority to set reasonable guidelines for depreciation allowances. Announced by President Nixon earlier, the rules will not require congressional action or hearings.

Nursing Home Fire Fatal To 9

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Fire swept through a four-story senior citizens home early today, killing nine occupants and injuring at least 48 other persons, authorities said.

The blaze began about 2:15 a.m. EST at the Westminster Terrace Presbyterian Home for Senior Citizens, and was discovered by the night nurse, Mrs. Helen Turner.

The building, southeast of Louisville, was evacuated and the uninjured residents were taken to hospitals, a nearby church and neighboring residences.

Seven were pronounced dead at one hospital and two at another. Of the injured, four were listed in critical condition.

Mrs. Turner said she heard a crackling sound, went to investigate and saw smoke pouring out of the chapel area. She alerted the fire department, then went to the home's infirmary and shut the room's doors.

A few minutes later the automatic fire alarm went off. The alarm also closed inside center hall doors, closing off the central stairs and elevators. Many residents left down stairs at each end of the building, which has a capacity of 91 occupants.

Garland Miller, chief of the Buechel Fire Department, said "we had to bring 50 out through the windows. Not one of them panicked," he added. "To my knowledge, no one was burned in the fire. Those who died were overcome by smoke."

Rail Union Chief May Push For Railroad Nationalization

Critics Hit U.S. Space Program

By HOWARD BENEDICT
AP Aerospace Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The recent successes of two unmanned Russian moon probes have sharpened the arguments of critics of America's manned space flight program.

The critics proclaim that America, too, should rely more on automatic payloads, and they urge additional cutbacks in manned projects. Congressional opponents of man in space already have sliced deeply into the space agency budget since the Apollo 11 moon landing in July 1969.

They have been aided by several factors: the need to spend money on more earthly problems like pollution, poverty and Vietnam; the abortive Apollo 13 mission which demonstrated the risk to astronauts, and the fact that most Americans believe the Soviet Union no longer is a threat to U.S. superiority in space.

The congressional action, which has trimmed NASA's budget from a peak of $3.9 billion in 1966 to $3.2 billion this year, has resulted in elimination of three Apollo moon landings, a stretchout in other missions and cancellations of some unmanned programs.

That leaves just four more Apollo shots, starting with Apollo 14's scheduled Jan. 31 launch.

In the same period, the number of persons employed in the space program in the United States has dropped from 420,000 to 145,000.

Yet, a Senate attempt in December to delete $110 million from the budget for NASA's next major manned vehicle, the space shuttle, was defeated.

The feeling of the Congressional majority now seems to be: space cuts have been deep enough. Let's ease up for the time being.

However, the $110 million will allow NASA only to move into a study phase on the shuttle, a reusable vehicle intended to ferry men and supplies between earth and a large orbiting space station. Space officials foresee future budget battles similar to those being waged by congressional opponents of the SST, the supersonic transport. They say it will be a fight against the SST or shuttle space station.

B52s Hit Reds In Cambodia

Support Drive To Open Highway

SAIGON (AP) — U.S. B52 bombers have joined the campaign to reopen Phnom Penh's highway to the sea, informed sources reported today. It is the first time the eight-jet Stratofortresses have been reported bombing in Cambodia in direct support of ground troops since the U.S. ground operations across the border last May and June.

The sources said the B52s pounded the Pich Nil and Stung Chhay mountain passes on Highway 4 southwest of the Cambodian capital to prepare the way for more than 13,000 South Vietnamese and Cambodian troops advancing from north and south.

Extensive enemy fortifications and bunkers were reported on the heights above Pich Nil, about 60 miles southwest of Phnom Penh, and Stung Chhay, 35 miles farther south. The North Vietnamese took control of the two passes last Nov. 21, cutting Phnom Penh off from the port of Kompong Som and causing shortages of fuel and other imports in the capital.

A South Vietnamese armored column was pushing north toward Stung Chhay today after smashing through a North Vietnamese pocket of resistance and killing 31 enemy troops, the government in Saigon said. A spokesman said there were no South Vietnamese casualties.

Another force of South Vietnamese marines was reported maneuvering into position for an assault on the heights of Pich Nil. Observers in Phnom Penh expected the battle for Pich Nil to be hard and bloody because the North Vietnamese have had almost two months to dig in and fortify the heights above the highway.

Elsewhere across Indochina only small skirmishes were reported.

The U.S. Command's weekly casualty report said 27 Americans were killed in combat last week and 83 were wounded, the lowest total battlefield casualties in more than five years. The death toll was the lowest in four weeks.

Another 27 Americans died from such nonhostile causes in accidents or illness.

Court To Hear Suit On Books

CINCINNATI (AP) — A Dayton group has won the right to a federal court hearing on a suit questioning the legality of public schools' lending library books to private schools.

The 6th U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals ordered that a three-judge panel be convened to hear the suit if the plaintiff so desires.

But Judge Carl Weinman of the U.S. District Court in Dayton said Wednesday that the Dayton chapter of the Protestant and other Americans United for Separation of Church and State had not yet requested that a hearing date be set.

UTU Leader Sees Solons Backing Move

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — Charles Luna, president of the United Transportation Union, says he thinks Congress is in a mood to nationalize the railroads, and he is proposing such a step if current labor disputes are not settled by March 1.

The UTU, with 280,000 members, is the largest union involved in the dispute. It took part in the brief national rail strike Dec. 10, but directed its members to end their work stoppage when ordered to do so by a federal court.

Luna said Wednesday he would prefer to handle labor disputes with the railroads by negotiation, but declared:

"If the federal courts and Congress continue to deprive railroad employees of their right to exercise their economic strength, the UTU will call upon Congress to enact legislation to nationalize the railroads and bring them under control of federal government."

Luna said the proposal was unanimously approved by 60 of his union's leaders at a meeting which began here Monday.

Luna said the UTU would have the nationalization measure introduced by a member of Congress unless its differences with the railroads were settled by the end of February.

He told newsmen he thought the legislators would be receptive because of requests for railroad subsidies, the Penn-Central financial crisis and other industry problems.

He asserted that the Railway Labor Act, under whose complex provisions labor-management negotiations are conducted, had been "twisted and bent" to the advantage of the carriers.

Luna is a vice president of the AFL-CIO and was named by President Nixon as an incorporator of the National Railway Passenger Corp., called Rapax, which is to set up passenger service on rail lines where such service has been discontinued.

$400,000 Fire Hits Printing Firm In Xenia

XENIA, Ohio (AP)—Fire did an estimated $400,000 damage to the Buckeye Printing Co. plant here Wednesday night.

Some 45 firemen from five fire companies fought the blaze which burned from about 9 p.m. until midnight. No one was hurt.

The building, valued at $140,000, housed the Wood Publishing Co., Buckeye Press, and Ampersand Press.

Richard W. Heckler of Springfield, president of the Buckeye Printing Co., said printing would continue at his Miller Printing Co. in Springfield.

Cause of the fire was not determined.

5 Deny They Had Part In Kidnap-Bombing Plot

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Rev. Philip Berrigan, the imprisoned antiwar priest, and four others have denied they were part of an alleged bomb-kidnap plot, scoring the charges as a government attempt to discredit the antiwar movement.

Berrigan, 47, and five others were indicted Tuesday by a federal grand jury in Harrisburg, Pa., on charges of plotting to kidnap presidential aide Henry Kissinger and to blow up heat tunnels in government buildings.

The grand jury met on the case again Wednesday and Asst. U.S. Atty. Guy Goodwin said one reason for continuing the probe was the possibility that some of those being questioned might become defendants.

Two of the defendants were released on bail after spending a night in jail and three others were held in lieu of $50,000 bond apiece.

Berrigan remained at the federal prison in Danbury, Conn., where he is serving a six-year sentence for destroying draft records in Maryland.

His brother, the Rev. Daniel Berrigan, 49, who is serving a three-year sentence at Danbury on similar charges, was one of seven persons named as co-conspirators in the case but not formally charged.

The Berrigans met with attorney William Kunstler Jr. the prison and through him released a statement likening the government's charges to the Nazis' burning of the Reichstag building in 1933.

"Knowing that most Americans are against that war, the government has embarked on a tragic and outrageous course—to stigmatize millions of moralistic dedicated opponents of our military involvement in Indochina as violent and deranged people," they said.

House Fire Claims Lives Of 3 Children

LONDON, Ohio (AP)—Three of the seven children of Mr. and Mrs. William Smalley burned to death early today when fire leveled their rural five-room frame dwelling near Kinsville in southeastern Madison County.

Authorities said the father awakened to find the house full of smoke and flames. He managed to rescue his wife and four children but could not reach the other three in time.

The three victims were Gary, 6; Patty, 8 and Bonnie, 9.

The house was all but burned out when firemen arrived on the scene. They said a defective electrical connection could have started the blaze, but the exact cause has not been determined.

"We call on all our fellow citizens, whatever their politics or religious beliefs, to repudiate the use of fabricated accusations and state trials to facilitate the implementation of foreign and domestic policies that may, if unchecked now, make peace, freedom and truth an anachronism of another day," they said.

Sister Elizabeth McAlister, 31, of Marymount College in Tarrytown, N.Y., was released on $50,000 bond.

At her arraignment in Newark, N.J., she said she was "astounded and shocked" by the charges, adding that she thought the government was trying to silence the antiwar movement by jailing critics "perhaps for the rest of their lives."

Mills Trial Jury Selections Resume

McARTHUR, Ohio (AP) — Jury selection will resume today in the trial of Oliver Mills, the accused slayer of Vinton County Sheriff Harold Steele.

Ten tentative jurors have been impaneled since the beginning of the selection period Monday, with four seats — including two alternates — remaining to be filled.

Steele was shot last August when he and a deputy tried to serve Mills a bench warrant in a dispute involving a utility company easement across his property.

Highly-Educated Grads Find Poor Job Market

By ANN BLACKMAN
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The uncertainty of the job market has a new meaning for Ph.D.'s these days: Prospects Highly Depressing.

In almost every field, jobs are scarce for the hundreds who have studied four to eight years for a doctorate, once an all but certain ticket to academic or professional success. And educators say the forecast for the next decade looks bleak.

"Jobs are tight now and going to remain tight," said Robert L.

Farrell, planning officer at the Smithsonian Institution and co-author of an article on the economics and financing of American higher education.

Colleges and universities, citing increasing financial burdens and cutbacks in federal funds for scientific research, are dropping research projects and cutting the curricula.

Nancy Clancy, who has charge of the American Historical Association's professional register, said she had 245 jobs listed by 175 schools, compared to last year's 403 jobs by 197 schools, a number then considered low.

However, not all areas of history feel the pinch. While there are too many historians specializing in Modern Europe and the United States, said Mrs. Clancy, there are jobs available in African and Asian history.

She also pointed out 800 doctorates in history were awarded last year, despite an association study that showed only about 500 jobs would be available.

According to U.S. Office of Education statistics, the number of Ph.D.'s awarded annually has tripled in the last 10 years — from 9,829 during the 1959-60 school year to 29,300 in 1969-70.

The Cooperative College Registry in Washington, a placement service for college teachers, reports the number of Ph.D. candidates is up 25 percent over last year and the number of job vacancies is down 25 percent.

"That's a 50 per cent lag," said Mrs. Elizabeth S. Fisher, executive director of the Registry. "It's scary when you think of all the good people who will have trouble getting jobs."

As of the first week in January, the Registry had 3,742 Ph.D. registrants for 399 vacancies. These figures include people who have jobs and are looking for better ones, as well as those who are entering the job market for the first time.

Editors report it is most difficult to get jobs in English, history, philosophy, political and religious studies.

"The fields easiest to fill are in math, sociology, anthropology

Demand for Ph.D.'s also exceeds the supply in astronomy, earth sciences, some areas of biology and some medical sciences, but these are relatively small fields.

Mrs. Armstrong said Yale had dropped geographic preferences from its registration cards for job applicants. "One interesting consequence of all this," she said, "is that people who have wanted to stay on the east or west coasts will find they have to go to the midwest to find work. This is good in a sociological way. It's spreading the talent, attitudes and customs cross the country."

Another effect is that many Ph.D.'s will take jobs at junior and community colleges instead of the more prestigious four-year institutions.

"We are getting more letters than we ever did from Ph.D.'s looking for jobs in community colleges," said William A. Harper, director of public relations for the American Association of Junior Colleges.

Dr. Alfred Livingston, executive vice-president of Cuyahoga Community College in Cleveland, agreed. "In the past six months, we've had a definite increase in the number of applicants with earned doctorates, persons who are probably preparing for university positions," he said.

The profusion of Ph.D.'s was forecast almost six years ago by Dr. Allan M. Carter, chancellor of New York University, in an article written for the American Statistical Association.

"No one believed it then," Carter said. "I wish they had listened."

In a recent paper on scientific trends for 1970-85, Dr. Carter said, "We have created a graduate education and research establishment in American universities that is about 30 to 50 per cent larger than we shall effectively use in the 1970's and early 1980's, and the growth process continues in many sectors. The readjustment to the real demands of the next 15 years is bound to be painful."

UAW Strikers Close Factory At Springfield

SPRINGFIELD, Ohio (AP)—Springfield's largest employer, the International Harvester Co., has been shut down by a United Auto Workers Union strike against the firm's parent company.

The strike was called Wednesday when negotiations failed to resolve basic contract differences between the union and the company. The UAW contract expired last Sept. 30.

The strike will idle 6,000 persons in the area.

Another 100 International Harvester employees at the firm's Columbus warehouses are out of work because of the strike.

Court Martial Panel Studies Secret Papers In Calley Case

FT. BENNING, Ga. (AP) — The rules under which the United States wages war in Vietnam and other documents too secret for open court have been shown to the six Army men trying Lt. William L. Calley Jr. on charges of mass murder in My Lai.

And, for the first time, there has been testimony that senior grade officers may have known on the day of the assault on the village that something had gone terribly wrong.

The public and newsmen were excluded from the courtroom Wednesday while the jurors, five of them decorated with ribbons for Vietnam service, studied classified documents that included:

—Data about Americans killed in action in the My Lai area.

—The rules of engagement covering the troops that stormed the hamlet.

—The operations report of the parent Americal Division during the quarter in which the March 16, 1968 raid occurred.

On that day, the government charges, Calley killed 102 unresisting "Oriental human beings . . . by means of shooting them with a rifle."

Until Wednesday the testimony of nearly 20 defense witnesses had been that the orders to devastate the village came from Capt. Ernest Medina, commander of Charley Company, in which Calley led the 1st Platoon.

But a former helicopter pilot testified that he felt the task force commander, Lt. Col. Frank A. Barker, "knew what was going on."

Barker was killed in a helicopter crash three months after the attack and long before details of the alleged massacre became known.

D. C. Lind, 22 and now a hired hand for a dairy farmer in Winthrop, Minn., ferried Barker to the task force staging area, known as Landing Zone Dottie.

"Do you remember a conversation in which Lt. Col. Barker, Col. Henderson and Gen. Koster participated?" Lind was asked.

"I don't remember who it was," Lind said. "I remember Col. Barker saying something to somebody, I don't remember who it was, 'relieve my anxieties,' or 'I noticed something wasn't right in the My Lai area.'"

Col. Oren K. Henderson was commander of the 11th Brigade. Gen. Samuel Koster, later superintendent at West Point, was commander of the Americal Division.

Compromise On Air Bags By Government Indicated

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Nixon administration is preparing to compromise with auto manufacturers on the hotly contested issue of safety devices that automatically protect car occupants in crashes, it was learned today.

Administration officials close to the auto safety program said the Department of Transportation will hold to its July 1, 1973, deadline for beginning installation of so-called air bags.

But the department will exempt lighter-weight car models from the deadline and probably will adjust the timetable for installing the inflatable cushions in all seating positions, these officials said.

"We're determined to maintain our credibility but not put smaller auto manufacturers out of business," said one highly placed source.

Automakers' aggressive resistance to the air bag deadline has become the major test of the Transportation Department's intentions on car safety enforcement.

The government twice has postponed deadlines for installing the inflatable bags—first from Jan. 1, 1972, to Jan. 1, 1973, then to July 1, 1973. The 1973 date would apply to 1974 model cars.

The department technically talks of requiring "passive restraint systems." The air bag is the only such system experts say is now feasible. Other passive devices includes restraints, blankets and harnesses that fasten automatically.

The automatic system would replace the lap and shoulder belts many drivers disregard.

A front seat air bag, for example, would pop from the dashboard and automatically inflate to cushion occupants when electronic devices sense a crash. The bag would prevent possible fatal impacts with the steering wheel, windshield and dashboard.

The Transportation Department proposed mandatory front-seat installation of the bag in all cars by July 1, 1973, and for rear seats a year later.

All automakers have asked for a postponement of the deadlines. General Motors, for example, wants two additional months, Ford 18 months, and Japanese manufacturers 30 months.

The administration will tell the industry in several weeks, sources said, that the 1973 deadline will hold—but only for certain heavier models.

"The device works best and most reliably in the bigger cars," one official said.

The deadline for air bag installation in rear seats probably will have to be postponed for several months, officials said.

OU, Workers Reach Accord On Procedures

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio University President Claude Sowle and representatives of the school's non-academic employees reached agreement late Wednesday on how to iron out a contract dispute.

The 900 members of the State, County and Municipal Employees Union at Ohio University have threatened to strike unless a new interpretation is applied to an overtime provision in the contract.

School officials have said a strike would close the university.

Union members voted in Athens Wednesday evening to empower the union's executive committee to call a strike whenever it was deemed "necessary."

The agreement in Columbus came after a marathon session in the offices of Gov. John J. Gilligan between Sowle, local union President Oscar McGee and Union executive Councilman Hershel Sigall.

Under terms of the agreement, the parties will meet "as soon as possible" to discuss the disputed area of the contract.

Should the meetings fail to resolve the disagreement, a four-member committee will be created to meet with an impartial referee selected by the governor.

The committees will consist of two union representatives and two university officials.

The parties also agreed, if all else failed, the referee may prepare recommendations for solving issues. Both the union and the university have agreed in advance to accept the recommendations of the referee.

The Columbus meeting was requested by Sowle in an effort to get negotiations off dead center.

Gilligan told school and union representatives when they arrived he had no authority to intervene in the dispute.

He did say, however, he could "initiate discussions that could lead to a settlement."

Had discussions collapsed, Gilligan said, matters would have had to take "their own course under existing law."

The governor added he did not think highly of current state laws regarding the disposition of labor questions involving public employees.

Baker Begins Term In Prison

LEWISBURG, Pa. (AP) — Robert G. "Bobby" Baker, smiling thinly and tight lipped, surrendered today to a U.S. Marshal to begin a prison term for cheating the government.

"I shall do my duty, and I shall do it with honor," Baker told newsmen as he strode through the snow into the Federal Court-house, ending his four year battle for freedom.

Baker, the Washington influence peddler who once boasted that Lyndon B. Johnson was "the best friend I ever had around the Capitol," wore sunglasses despite the gray morning peppered with freezing rain.

States Push Revenue Sharing Plan

WASHINGTON (AP) — Financially pinched states are mounting a new effort to cut a slice of the federal pie for themselves.

They hope to pressure a reluctant Capitol Hill to pass President Nixon's revenue-sharing plan or, in an end-run approach, force Congress to convene an unprecedented constitutional convention for the same purpose.

The New Jersey Legislature started the ball rolling last month by adopting a resolution calling for a convention to amend the U.S. Constitution to require the federal government to share its tax money with the states.

"The effort is being made in almost all state legislatures," said Early Mackey, an official of the National Legislative Conference, which is pushing the proposal.

He predicted 10 to 20 state legislatures would quickly approve the resolution.

Congress would be forced to convene a convention if two-thirds (43) of the state legislatures ask for one. The convention could only write an amendment, which would have to be ratified by the states.

Congress could choose between two forms of ratification: by two-thirds of the states in separate conventions or in three-fourths (38) of the state legislatures.

The last effort to call a constitutional convention was organized by the late Sen. Everett Dirksen, R-Ill., in an attempt to overrule the Supreme Court's "one man, one vote" rulings that forced reapportionment of legislative bodies. Dirksen's attempt fell short, but just barely.

Leaving Scene Of Accident Nets $100 Fine

Neil D. Wolfe, 23, Route 4, was fined $100 and costs by Circleville Municipal Court Judge Sterling M. Lamb on a charge of leaving the scene of an accident filed by Circleville Police.

Judge Lamb handed Wolfe a 30-day suspended jail sentence and placed him on probation for one year.

William C. Haddox, 23, 371 Town St., was fined $25 and costs and $15 and costs on two charges of operating an unsafe motor vehicle, both filed by the Ohio State Highway Patrol.

Lloyd Gene Garrett, 20, 464 Brown St., forfeited a $10 bond for operating an unsafe motor vehicle.

John D. Fyffe, 35, 968 S. Washington St., forfeited a $24 bond posted for speeding 62 miles per hour in a 50 mile per hour zone.

Daniel Perry, Columbus, forfeited a $59 bond for shooting a hen pheasant. Leonard Mumaw, 465 Dearborne Ave., and Albert Kirkendall, 381 Walnut St., both forfeited $34 bonds posted when charged with illegally hunting with a light at night. Tom Weldon, Pickaway County game protector, filed the charges.

1971 Election Will Fill Local Posts

With newly-elected candidates now officially installed in prospective offices, thoughts of elections and campaigning have been cast aside — but only temporarily.

The New Year will again require that voters go to the polls in both Primary and General elections to cast ballots for local administrative positions in municipal offices.

In 1971, in Circleville, voters will elect a mayor, councilmen-at-large, ward councilmen, city auditor, treasurer, municipal court judge and school board members.

In addition, a 1.7 mill operational levy for the proposed Ross - Pickaway County joint vocational education school will go before voters in the May primary.

The May primary may seem remotely distant at the present time, but deadline for candidates seeking nomination at the May 4 Primary election must be filed by 4 p.m. Feb. 3 or within another 16 working days of today.

Candidates for Municipal and Township offices and boards of education of Pickaway County are not required to file candidacies until prior to the November General election.

Among officials of the townships, one trustee and a clerk will be elected in 1971. These candidates are required to file petitions with the county Election Board no later than Aug. 4.

To date, no declarations of intent to seek a city office has been filed with the County Elections Board, according to Betty McGinnis, deputy director.

Tenure of office for the city posts to be filled are mayor and city auditor, 4 years; treasurer and council members, 2 years; municipal judge, 6 years.

Hutto's Fate Now In Hands Of Court Martial Board

FT. McPHERSON, Ga. (AP) —Six officers, all veterans of Vietnam duty, were expected to begin today deliberating the fate of Sgt. Charles Hutto, charged with assault with intent to murder at least six My Lai villagers.

The defense rested its case Wednesday and Col. Kenneth Howard, the military judge, said lawyers for Hutto and the Army would make their closing arguments before he gives the jury its instructions.

Hutto, the third soldier to be tried on charges arising from an infantry assault on the village March 16, 1968, faces a maximum sentence of 20 years if found guilty.

Hutto, whose court-martial began Jan. 5 at the headquarters of the 3rd Army, was at My Lai as a machine gunner attached to the 2nd Platoon of Charley Company, Lt. William L. Calley Jr., who is being court-martialed on murder charges at Ft. Benning, commanded the 1st Platoon.

Hutto's civilian lawyer, Edward Magill of Miami, Fla., has attempted to show that the soldier went into the village expecting to find at least a battalion of Viet Cong.

A number of defense witnesses testified that Capt. Ernest Medina, the company commander, gave a briefing on the eve of the assault in which he left no doubt that his troops were to kill every living thing in the village.

None of the three former Charlie Company soldiers summoned as prosecution witnesses testified that they saw Hutto firing at the villagers.

But a fourth witness, an agent of the Army's Criminal Investigation Division, testified that Hutto gave him a statement in which he admitted killing "eight or 10" during the assault.

"It was murder," said the statement.

The prosecution contended the statement made it clear Hutto knew that he was doing something wrong.

But the defense produced as a witness a psychologist who testified that Hutto probably did not literally mean murder.

The psychologist, who said his examination of the soldier indicated that he would have been unable to form the intent to kill, said Hutto used the term in a colloquial sense—"like shooting sitting ducks."

June Loses Title As Bride's Month

The month of June lost its descriptive title as the "Month of Brides" at Pickaway County Probate Court offices during 1970. The greatest number of marriage licenses issued in any one month by the court during the past year were 47 in August. June was demoted to second place with 37 issued licenses.

Sharing third place with July as a popular wedding month was December. Thirty-two couples made application for marriage licenses in each of these months.

Spring and "a young man's fancy turning to thoughts of love," is not as reputed, according to local statistics. Fewer marriage licenses were issued in March, the official Spring month, marking it as the least romantic month, statistically.

A total of 343 couples made application for marriage licenses in Pickaway County in 1970 and 341 licenses were issued. Of those issued, 337 were actually used, according to court office records.

Marriage appeared to be a popular institution for persons of varied ages. The oldest person making application for license in 1970 was a 78-year-old female. The youngest, also female, was 14 years.

The oldest man to apply for a license was 73 years; the youngest male, 16 years.

The majority of licenses were issued in the 22 years and older age bracket. Of the 343 couples applying, boys age 22 years and older numbered 208, girls 133.

Critics . . .

(Continued from Page One) Congress has cut enough funds in the past two years to delay the launching of the shuttle space station from 1975 until 1977 or 1978, perhaps later.

Scientists generally have decried the cuts in the space program. However, congressional opponents of the shuttle have enlisted two eminent scientists for their cause.

They are Dr. James A. Van Allen of the University of Iowa, whose instrument aboard America's first satellite discovered the Van Allen radiation belts, and Dr. Thomas Gold of Cornell University, who also heads President Nixon's space science panel.

"The manned space program, it seems to me, has had its day," Gold said.

Van Allen said: "I am totally unpersuaded that men in a spacecraft are important or even useful in any way that is commensurate with the effort required to maintain them there. It increases the cost of a given mission and risks human life unnecessarily."

The Iowa physicist said future space flights "should be launched for purely scientific objectives" and recommended two central objectives for the space program of the 1970s.

"First," he said, "the fullest economically feasible exploitation of our space capabilities for useful applications in rapid and efficient communications, in aviation, and in the analysis and forecast of the dynamics of the world's weather and in terrestrial reconnaissance and survey in the broadest sense."

"Second, the enlargement and extension of scientific knowledge and human perception of the larger physical universe."

"If one or more men in the spacecraft is the cost-effective technique for conducting any one of these missions, let it be done in that mode," Van Allen said. "But if, as I anticipate, this is not the case, let us not grieve nor devote ourselves to the investment of specious and insane reasons to the contrary. Rather let us get on with our two basic objectives in the most sensible and rational framework that we can devise."

Two Juveniles Arrested For Car Theft

Two juvenile boys from Lancaster were taken into custody by the Pickaway County Sheriff's Department for stealing an automobile in Amanda Wednesday night.

Fairfield County reported the theft at 8:43 p.m. Pickaway County Deputy Sheriff Bill Dountz and auxiliary Deputy Leon Sims were on routine patrol at 9:55 p.m. when they spotted the car on Route 674.

The auto turned east on Marcy Road where deputies stopped the car and took the boys into custody.

The boys said they had hitchhiked to Amanda in order to steal a car and go joy riding. The auto was owned by James L. Anderson of Amanda.

The boys were released to the Fairfield County authorities.

Government Promises Close Eye On Indian Aid

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Interior Department has promised to keep a closer watch on millions of dollars in federal aid to Indians following accusations by two legal organizations that states had mismanaged the money.

Officials in seven Western states and New York took money intended for Indian children's education and used it for "every conceivable school system need except the need that Congress had in mind," the NAACP Legal Defense Fund and the Harvard Center for Law and Education charged Tuesday.

"On the whole the report is a balanced one," said Harrison Loesch, assistant secretary of the Interior for public land management, after an hour and a half meeting with an Indian committee and representatives from the two groups.

"It pinpoints some of the concerns Commissioner of Indian Affairs Louis R. Bruce and I have been tackling during the past several months," he said.

Loesch said he and Bruce had made a "commitment" to finish in the next 60 days improved regulations governing the administration of one set of federal Indian aid funds falling under the 1934 Johnson-O'Malley Act.

Spokesmen for the legal groups said they intended to work with the BIA, but would also continue preparing court suits aimed at cutting off federal funds to any local school district that "discriminates against Indian children."

Their 162-page report covering 60 school districts, criticized local and state school officials for sidetracking the money, and federal officials for not keeping close enough watch on where it went.

It named no specific dollar figures, but Phyllis McClure, Washington representative of the Legal Defense Fund, said it added up to "more than 50 percent" of the approximately $66 million in special federal funds for the 1969-70 school year.

The report said money appropriated for the special education needs of poor Indian school children had been used to pay general school operating expenses, to keep tax rates lower for non-Indian property owners to buy equipment used by non-Indian children, and even to benefit white children exclusively.

One New Mexico official, Grants Municipal District Superintendent M.B. McBride, called the specific accusations against his district "hogwash."

and the report "unreliable, unrealistic and untrue."

Interviewer Rosemary Crowe replied that McBride had "refused to be interviewed on the grounds that he could not defend himself in court," and repeated her accusations of torn, tattered, dated, anti-Indian textbooks.

Dr. Donald Barnhart, South Dakota Superintendent of Public Instruction, said Indian youngsters generally get the short end of education, primarily because Indian and non-Indian children bring different values into the classroom.

He added, as did Oklahoma officials, that he didn't know of any federal Indian money going into other programs in his state.

Other states declined immediate comment.

Dear Abby: She Wants Proof Of Adultery

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: To get right down to brass tacks, I don't trust my husband. We work different hours and I think he is fooling around with another woman.

Is there some way I can get our home telephone hooked up to another telephone somewhere else so I could listen in on his telephone conversation? I would be willing to rent a motel room temporarily and have an extension telephone from our home installed there. The suspicion is driving me out of my mind. If I knew once and for all that he had another woman I could take it, but the uncertainty is killing me. How can I get proof?

LOSING MY MIND
DEAR LOSING: What you suggest is illegal, and no telephone company would assist you with your plan. Since you are willing to accept the fact that your husband has someone else, if indeed he has, I suggest you ask him.

DEAR ABBY: I wear contact lenses. I recently stayed overnight at a girl friend's house, and her little niece watched, fascinated, as I put in my contact lenses. The child had never seen anything like that before, so I very carefully explained that contact lenses were "little eyeglasses" made especially for me, and that no one should ever put anything in his eye which was not made especially for that purpose.

I made sure the child understood me because I once heard of a little child who had watched her mother put contact lenses into her eyes often. The child found a small piece of broken glass and wanting to "imitate" her mother, she stuck the broken glass into her eye, and subsequently the child became blind in one eye. You may think this is worth passing on, Abby.

LINDA
DEAR LINDA: Indeed I do. Thank you for writing.

DEAR ABBY: My son, who was in college, had an affair with this girl and she became pregnant. He married her to give the child a name and he had to quit college to support the child.

She continued in college, got her degree and is now teaching in the same college. They divorced shortly after the baby came.

Now my son can't finish college because of having to support the child.

This is what hurts: His ex-wife lets the child (now five years old) come to visit me and this child tells me that his mother sleeps with her boy friends. My son has found that this is true.

Should he go before the school board where she teaches and tell them the life she's living?

I promised my dead wife I would educate our son. Please help me to make the right decision.

WORRIED FATHER

DEAR FATHER: Educate your son if you are able. Giving the mother of your grandchild a black eye, or causing her to lose her job, if that is what you would hope to accomplish, wouldn't help your son any.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "CONCERNED FRIEND": Don't tip off the new girl friend. If he is as big a heel as you say he is, let her find out for herself. She will regard your "wising her up" as an exercise in sour grapes. Besides, one girl's banquet can be another girl's crumbs.

SS Hope Sails On

SS Hope, the little ship with the big heart, will begin its second decade of service to humanity this month.

Arriving in Kingston, Jamaica, on Jan. 13, the Hope's team of more than 150 doctors, nurses, dentists and technicians will go to work providing their counterparts in the West Indies instruction and aiding them to provide service to those in need.

This is the format the Hope has been following throughout its many trips since the first one in 1960. It goes only where invited and stays only as long as needed.

More often than not, the Hope leaves for the next port of call with an invitation to return as soon as possible.

As long as there is an SS Hope there will be no end to the invitations. The services it provides are in short supply in a large part of the world. So is the goodwill it generates at every stop.

The Business World

By JOHN CUNIFF

NEW YORK (AP) — What are we to make of the tremendous jump in steel prices initiated by Bethlehem Steel Corp., the second largest of the great companies whose products and decisions affected so much of American life?

First, that Bethlehem keeps its word.

A year ago this company, which produces annually more than 20 million tons of steel essential to the output of thousands of other companies, initiated a 5 per cent increase. It followed a 7 per cent rise in 1969.

Naturally, there was some outcry from customers, but it was quickly neutralized by a promise from Bethlehem and others that they would call a one-year moratorium on further hikes. And so the higher prices went into effect.

No new era of stability was proclaimed by the promise, but it was greeted by business and government as a statesmanlike act that would contribute to economic equilibrium for well, for at least a year.

The date agreed upon for the increases was March 1, except in the case of sheet piling, for which the higher prices would be effective Feb. 16.

Now one year later almost to the day, Bethlehem does it again effective Feb. 16 and March 1. A promise kept.

The lady manner of the keeping, however, is bound to make those dependent upon the steel companies a bit wary that the only result of last year's action was to remove the guesswork and put increases on a schedule, and that the promise made was really to increase prices rather than to restrain them.

No misinterpretations are possible this year, a matter that was made clear in the Bethlehem statement that "these new prices aren't guaranteed for any period of time," which suggests that more could be coming after wage settlements.

So far as some supporters of free enterprise are concerned, it's just as well that no more promises are made, because they had wondered how any industry, especially so basic as steel, could forsake the halcyon price-setting mechanism of the market place.

According To Boyle

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — "What can I do for you?"

How often we hear these words from people we meet or talk to over the telephone. They have become a trite and unctuous phrase in our trite and unctuous times—a double-talk expression which, translated literally, too often means "Please don't ask me to do anything for you. I've got troubles enough of my own."

But what if, once in your lifetime, a mighty genie able to do anything whispered in your ear, "What can I do for you?" And meant it.

The possibility is so startling one would hardly know where to begin. But I think I'd at least ask him for—

A molehill I couldn't turn into a mountain.

A bump-free highway through life or, at least, one with pleasant detours.

A million-dollar nest egg to hide in a hole in the backyard, and another million-dollar nest egg to hide in the front yard where no thief bothers to look for buried loot.

A lifetime pass to all pro football games.

A pretty red-haired girl friend during the week and two other pretty red-haired girl friends for the weekends.

An old-fashioned gold railroad watch with a gold chain and a gold-mounted elk's tooth.

Cinderella's glass slipper.

Ten Patton tanks and a sword called Excalibur.

A tete-a-tete with the Headless Horseman.

A crystal partridge in a platinum pear tree.

One vineyard in France and another in California and two distilleries in Kentucky.

An hour in hell to talk to Adolf Hitler.

A month in heaven to listen to Emily Dickinson, the poet.

A year on the street corners of ancient Athens arguing with Socrates.

A mouthful of manna and two cupfuls of ambrosia.

Two mountains of my own bordering a valley through which flowed a stream watering fruitful fields.

A cathedral of my own and enough bread crumbs and coins to feed the pigeons and beggars on its steps.

A trampoline.

Something for my dandruff.

A retinue of admirers to slap their thighs and chuckle at my witticisms.

A court fool to imitate me and keep my throne warm.

Several culprits to pardon.

Twelve wise men to help me finish a crossword puzzle.

"What can I do for you?" Well, I guess that's about all I can do for you. Anything else I'd need—such as a cure for insomnia—I could get for myself. After all, you have to leave something for a fellow to do for himself—otherwise he might get spoiled.

A report by the Brookings Institution supports the Electoral College system of electing a president. What was good enough for Senator Taft's grandfather is good enough for Senator Taft.

The Electoral College was established by our forefathers because of lack of communications. From what one hears from colleges, the situation hasn't changed much.

The Brookings report says a direct presidential vote would weaken the country's two-party system. Well, the losing side doesn't throw such a party anyhow.

With the Electoral College, a president can be elected without receiving the greatest popular vote. But that isn't of much concern because once they get going they realize they wouldn't get in on the second try, either.

Under the Electoral College an elector can vote for anyone he pleases for president. Think back about that.

President Nixon once flunked Electoral College. Then he got people to thinking he was a dropout.

The Brookings Institution is a Washington research outfit specializing in government problems. With a specialty like that, you wonder how it would have time for the Electoral College.

Try and Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

A PERFECT one-sentence insight into a man's character once was fashioned by Paul Krassner when he described an earnest but somewhat "square" V.I.P. he had interviewed as "the kind of man who might underline a passage in the Bible he was reading and pencil in the margin 'How true!'"

How TRUE!

A patient ticketed for minor surgery was wheeled up to the operating room, then ignored completely for over an hour. When he finally protested to an intern rushing by, the latter explained, "You'll have to make allowances, sir. It's been murder in there this morning!"

A medal should be presented to Tom Carruthers, of N.Y.C., who wrote the sanitation department a letter that brought immediate results. It read: "I direct your attention to one pile of garbage that's been in our street so long it's been declared a landmark." His street is now spotless as new-fallen snow.

Speaking Of Your Health

By Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

Is there any danger in using a sun lamp? Is it true that it can cause cancer of the skin?

Mrs. G.B., Conn.

Dear Mrs. B.: Overexposure of sensitive skin to ultraviolet light from a sun lamp is just as dangerous as overexposure to the concentrated ray of the midday summer sun.

Some dermatologists give strict orders to their patients and advise them to stay out of the sun. This advice, of course, holds for sun lamps, too.

The use of a sun lamp has unfortunately introduced a new fear to cancer-conscious people. Many people who enjoy the sun and the sun lamp have been unnecessarily terrorized by this fear.

Unless there have been specific suggestions by the doctor to stay out of the sun, I feel that this is a needless additional anxiety.

There is a danger that can be avoided in the use of the sun lamp. Many people have a tendency to overdo these ultraviolet treatments in a desire to speed up tanning. Severe skin burns can follow overexposure, especially if the lamp is too close to your face.

Another danger is the possibility of falling asleep under the lamp. This happens far more often than is realized. The warm relaxation of the lamp is conducive to sleep. For this reason many sun lamps are provided with an automatic shutoff and a warning bell.

Protective goggles must be worn. Too often this is neglected in an effort to get a diffuse sunburn around the eyelids. Cotton pads, too, give extra protection.

Bear in mind that some drugs increase the sensitivity of the skin to ultraviolet light. If you are taking any drug, ask your doctor for specific permission to use the sun lamp.

My seven-year-old daughter has thalassemia, an unusual blood condition.

Fortunately, doctors have been able to control it, but I thought other readers might be interested in knowing something about this condition.

Mrs. R.M. Mich.

Dear Mrs. M.: This type of anemia is also known as Mediterranean and Cooley's anemia. The latter was named after the doctor who clearly described it some time in the 1920's.

The condition is an inherited one and has been recognized in many Mediterranean countries. The diagnosis is made by microscopic study of the blood when once the condition is suspected.

There are a number of new forms of treatment that now can keep this anemia in control, even though there is no known cure.

Harsh brushes and combs can cause abrasions and infections of the scalp.

TODAY In History

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Today is Thursday, Jan. 14, the 14th day of 1971. There are 351 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history: On this date in 1784, the United States ratified a peace treaty with England, formally ending the American revolution.

On this date:

In 1809, England and Spain formed an alliance against Napoleon Bonaparte.

In 1814, Denmark ceded Norway to Sweden.

In 1914 the first auto assembly line was started by Henry Ford. The time to put a car together was reduced from 12 hours to 90 minutes.

In 1942, forces under Gen. Douglas MacArthur were resisting Japanese attacks in the Pacific war battle of Bataan in the Philippines.

In 1943, President Franklin D. Roosevelt and British Prime Minister Winston Churchill began a wartime conference in Casablanca, Morocco.

In 1953, the parliament in Yugoslavia elected Premier Tito president. The vote was 568 to 1.

Ten years ago — President Dwight D. Eisenhower issued an order prohibiting the holding of gold overseas by Americans.

Five years ago — A Soviet mission to North Vietnam returned to Moscow and pledged increased aid to the North Vietnamese war effort.

One year ago — Nigeria refused assistance for victims of its civil war from France, Portugal, South Africa and Rhodesia, saying they had been hostile toward Niger's through the long conflict.

Baldwin's Back

By JEFFERY HART

By JEFFERY HART

With some regularity during the past few years National Review has asked editorially the simple question: "Where's James Baldwin?" Because there was a time, for about ten years or maybe a little less, when you couldn't open a magazine without encountering that baleful countenance adjacent to some apocalyptic warning. James Baldwin, up through the mid-1960s, was, in the apt phrase of one reviewer, our "virtuoso of ethnic suffering." It was his thing, he did it better than anyone else, and, consequently, Everybody Knew His Name. He could say absolutely anything he liked, without fear of contradiction. When he screamed in The Fire Next Time that Christianity had never done anything for the Negro, nobody, least of all our clergy, cared one whit. So much for you, Boston Abolitionists. Get lost, Wilberforce.

Then, all of a sudden, pfft, Baldwin vanished. Rumor placed him in Tangier or some other Casbah, no one seemed to know for sure — but as a presence he had ceased to exist.

Much more wrathful figures moved to center stage as a tremendous escalation set in. Malcolm X. Faster music, stronger wine, Stokely Carmichael, Rap Brown, Ron Karenga, Huey Newton — guns! guns! Eldridge Cleaver and Bobby Seale. Wow, the Second Civil War. Angela Davis, the Che-Lumumba section of the Communist Party, the shootout in Marin County.

It was easy to see why Baldwin had obsolesced. The whole show had just passed him by, had moved from the word to the act, and who cared about a turgid writer who could scarcely be suspected of having "Offed" any Pigs. He was passe. The old thrill was gone.

But Baldwin has just resurfaced, making a clear bid for a comeback. He appears in an open letter to Angela Davis printed in the New York Review of Books, an opaque, scarcely intelligible document, which has nothing at all to say about the actual charges against Miss Davis, and which, despite its posturing humanitarism, has nothing at all to say about the dead judge and the bodies strewn in front of that courthouse — and which, so far as I can make out, argues that the American Negro today is the exact equivalent of the Jew under Adolf Hitler.

"You look exceedingly alone," he writes to Angela Davis, as alone, say, as the Jewish housewife in the boxcar headed for Dachau." And he reminds her, and us, that Germany "was made notorious by a silent majority not so very long ago." And then he lets it all hang out: "It is clear that for the bulk of our (nominal) countrymen, we are all expendable. And Messrs. Nixon, Agnew, Mitchell, and Hoover, to say nothing, of course, of the King's Row basket case, the winning Ronnie Reagan, will not hesitate for an instant to carry out what they insist is the will of the people."

After a good deal of turgid vituperation against America ("a carnivorous economy which democratically slaughters and victimizes whites and blacks alike"), Baldwin returns to the predicament of Miss Davis, who does after all face specific charges, but even here his mind is really back in Hitler's Germany. "If we know, then we must fight for your life as though it were our own — which it is — and render impassable with our bodies the corridor to the gas chamber. For if they take you in the morning, they will be coming for us that night."

With a wonderful unconscious irony, after all his violent rhetoric and calls to heroic struggle, Baldwin closes his letter with the words, "Therefore: peace." That is surely the most extraordinary "therefore" in the English language.

And so we have Baldwin's comeback bid. I don't know. The letter is so atrocious that it may very well succeed, and, who knows, Baldwin may soon be turning up on your campus or between the columns of perfume and travel ads in your women's magazine — or at Leonard Bernstein's.

Christmas Special

By BOB THOMAS

AP Television-Movie Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Bob Hope to baseball star Johnny Bench: "It's a great sport, baseball. You can spend eight months on grass and not get busted."

Vietnam audiences of American servicemen roared with laughter and the evidence can be seen on Hope's television special Thursday night.

Bob Hope doing marijuana jokes for the troops?

"Yes, I know a lot of people are shocked," said the comedian during a break in editing the NBC show down to 90 minutes. "I didn't talk to the military brass about doing it; I just went ahead. I think it's better to get this thing out in the open. Then it can be treated as the problem it is."

A Hope aide remarked that one general was queried for his reaction. "This man deals in the news," said the general, "and pot smoking in Vietnam is news."

"Sure, they smoke pot in Vietnam," Hope commented. "But it was never a problem until this year. That's because the guys have nothing to do. Before, when soldiers got bored they said, 'Let's have a drink.' Now they sit around the fire and light up."

"But look—when I was a young man, we'd go knock on a door on 57th Street in New York and go into a speakeasy to get a drink. Liquor was illegal then, and that was our kick."

Does that mean Hope favors legalizing pot as well as liquor? "Oh, no!" he replied quickly. "I've talked to too many doctors about it. I know it's not good for you."

He even admitted to have smoked pot himself.

"It was when I was in vaudeville," said Hope. "I tried it and it scared me. It made me sezier—and I thought I was already sexy enough."

Hope now plans to make a 15-minute film to warn the troops about the use of pot.

Hope returned from his seventh Christmas in Vietnam as hawkish as ever—"We've got to save that nation, and the rest of Southeast Asia."

This year he will again be playing college campuses, which are notably dovish. He was asked how he pleases both audiences.

"I've never had any trouble at the college," he said. "There are a lot of students who agree with me that we're too big a nation to turn our backs on a country like Vietnam."

Hope put an end to rumors that the 1970 trip might be his last to Vietnam.

"Sure, I'll go back," he said. Then his eyes lighted up as he said:

"This next trip will be the damndest one yet." Where could he possibly go that he hasn't been—Antarctica? He nodded with a sly grin.

Gilligan Speaks To Journalists

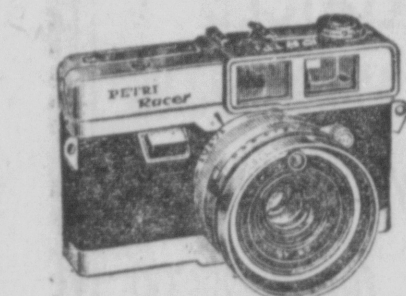

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Gov. John J. Gilligan suggested Wednesday evening that journalists act "wisely and carefully" in covering news in Ohio.

Gilligan told a gathering here of members of Sigma Delta Chi, the professional journalism society, his administration would do its part to open government activities to the public so that they "may see and judge our actions for themselves."

"We intend to have an open, candid, visible administration," he said.

The governor said both the future of journalism and American democracy rested upon the ability of newsmen to report the news fairly, accurately and with good judgment.

William Stout, chairman of the executive committee, said that recommendations for the positions of county state highway superintendent and liquor store manager will be announced soon.

How The Weather Looks

OHIO WEATHER SUMMARY
COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Official weather bureau summary for Ohio:

It was warm over most of the state Wednesday night and freezing rain over northern sections changed to rain and then gradually ended as the warm air really took over.

The night had a touch of spring also as thundershowers broke out near Cincinnati and moved east through the southern tier of counties.

Temperatures rose well into the 50s in southern and eastern counties and generally into the 40s elsewhere.

Tonight, however, colder air will bring snow flurries, but there will be little or no accumulation.

Snow flurries will continue through Friday in the northeast.

FORECASTS

OHIO —Cloudy and turning cooler tonight with chance of snow flurries tonight north and east, low in the 20s. Friday mostly cloudy and cooler with chance of snow flurries northeast, high in the 30s.

NORTHWEST INLAND and WEST LAKE SHORE —Cloudy and cooler tonight with chance of few snow flurries tonight. Temperatures falling to near 20 tonight. Mostly cloudy and colder Friday, high in the lower 30s.

WEST CENTRAL and SOUTHWEST — Mostly cloudy and colder tonight and Friday. Low tonight in the middle 20s. High Friday in the middle to lower 30s.

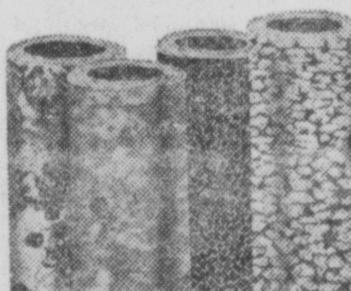

CENTRAL, EAST CENTRAL and SOUTHEAST —Cloudy and turning cooler tonight with chance of a few snow flurries tonight. Temperatures falling to the mid to upper 20s tonight. Mostly cloudy and cooler Friday, high in the middle to lower 30s.

Republican Women Hold Luncheon

A special carry-in luncheon replacing the December Christmas Luncheon which was postponed took place recently at the Circleville Presbyterian Church in the social rooms.

Mrs. H. O. Caldwell welcomed members and guests with greetings from calendar messages for the coming year. Dues and greetings were received from Mrs. Ellen Bliss Arrington in Cape Hase, Perceda, Fla.

A note of gratitude was received from Orient State Institute for the Christmas gift packages they had received from the Republican Club. An invitation for the Pickaway County Women's Republican Club to a 6:30 p.m. Jan. 21 dinner was extended by Fayette County Women's Republican Club. The dinner is to be held in the Washington C. H. Farm Bureau building.

Members voted to cancel the regular Feb. 22 meeting and to schedule the next luncheon meeting for March 22.

The program was a continuance of the travelogue on Siberia and Canada by Mrs. Caldwell.

Hostesses included Mrs. Lawrence R. Liston, chairman; Mrs. Herman Porter, Mrs. E. L. Sheets, Mrs. J. B. Work and Mrs. Bertha Porter.

First Meeting Of Year Held By Guild 38

Berger Hospital Guild 38 held its first meeting of the year recently in the home of Mrs. F. D. Easterday Jr., 107 Wilson Ave.

Following the business session a dessert course was served by the hostess and co-hostess, Mrs. Edward Hart.

The next scheduled meeting will begin with a carry-in dinner at 6:30 p.m. in the home of Mrs. Dwight Rector, 1020 Sunshine Drive. Mrs. Irene Crawford will be co-hostess.

The next meeting will be Feb. 9 in the home of Mrs. Manley Carothers, 1020 Georgia Road, with Mrs. James Salyers as program leader.

Never shake or beat a hooked rug because this will break the burlap, which is the foundation of the rug, and will shake out the loops. Sweep a hooked rug with care or use the suction tool of the vacuum cleaner on it. Washing is risky as that, too, may damage the burlap foundation.

Use an old sheet to make a muslin pattern for a slipcover. Cut and fit it, then keep it for re-use.

Views on Television

By CYNTHIA LOWERY
AP Television-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — ABC's News Department was tackling a tough assignment Wednesday night, when it tried to turn statistics and percentages of a nationwide poll on major issues into a visually interesting television program.

"National Polling Day: What Americans Think" was an hour-long special based on questions put to 3,000 Americans by Louis Harris. The cross-section was asked about youth, the economy, war and law and order. Some majority opinions were surprising. Sixty-three per cent favored imposition of wage and price controls; 70 per cent believed law and order had broken down; 77 per cent approved the recent prisoner of war raid near Hanoi.

But quoting numbers is not enough and it seemed that almost frantic efforts were made to pack the program with visual aids. So many visiting experts and staff specialists were included that none was able to speak more than a few sentences. One economist was clipped off in mid-sentence so they could run a short tape of a man-on-the-street interview.

Frank Reynolds earnestly steered the busy program and Harris gravely rolled out his statistics, offering bit of interpretation here and there.

Most interesting moment came toward the end when Bill Moyers, one-time press secretary to President Lyndon B. Johnson and one of the guest experts, observed that he would be "disturbed if a president paid attention to a poll like this."

Pollster Harris then recalled that President John F. Kennedy once told him, "You can't make decisions on the basis of polls but on the merits of cases—but then you want to look around and see if you are within the jaws of the governed."

The exchange seemed to put the program into focus.

Bright spot of the evening was NBC's "Music Hall," with Alan King again pursuing one of his favorite subjects: matrimony. He was at his comic best, working over such subjects as demanding wives, marriage-minded nurses and a New Year's Eve party.

CBS is doing some novel programming again. The series that started last September as "Storefront Lawyers" will emerge on February 3 as "Men at Law," and the network is calling it a new series, probably because the storefront will be dropped and the emphasis on youth eliminated. Robert Foxworth, one of the original co-stars, will have a dominant role, costarring with Gerald S. O'Loughlin, new to the cast. Two other young actors who originally costarred with Foxworth will have less important roles.

In Handgun Case

WASHINGTON (AP) — A former top law enforcement officer for the Army has been indicted for unlawfully obtaining 423 guns from the Chicago Police Department and for evading $16,000 in federal income taxes. Atty. Gen. John Mitchell said Tuesday the 13-count indictment was returned against Retired Army Gen. Carl C. Turner by a federal grand jury in Richmond, Va.

Turner was provost marshal general when he resigned from the Army in 1968 and later was appointed by President Nixon as chief of U.S. Marshals. He resigned the Justice Department post under pressure and was stripped of the Army Distinguished Service Medal in 1969 after becoming a central figure in a congressional investigation of graft in Army service clubs.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Agriculture Department has quietly dropped a year-old plan for testing the fat content of supermarket hot dogs to see if manufacturers are meeting standards favored by the White House.

But department officials say the fat limit of 30 per cent—in force since October 1969—is being observed scrupulously by most manufacturers without the threat of enforcement.

The sole basis for this conclusion is the department's old system of sampling cooked sausage in plants to see if makers are abiding by the federal fat limit.

Last year the Consumer and Marketing Service said a plan was under consideration for purchasing hot dogs at retail stacked up against routine inspections made in meat plants.

Asked by a reporter whether the plan is still under consideration, officials said it has been shelved and there are no plans to revive it.

Dr. Edward A. Murphy, in charge of standards for the marketing service, said the market sampling plan was canceled mainly because it was too cumbersome and because laboratory facilities were not adequate.

Murphy said the present system of checking hot-dog fat in the plants is working well and few complaints have been made by the industry, which originally opposed the limit.

The latest fat information based on plant samplings of cooked sausages, including bologna, knockwurst and frankfurters, was released Tuesday.

Officials said 98.2 per cent of 4,446 samples examined during the last quarter of 1970 conformed with the 30 per cent limit.

Until the 1969 rule, manufacturers could put as much fat into sausages as consumers would accept. In some cases this amounted to almost 50 per cent of the product.

Department officials say the shelved plan for store samplings would not have added much to the information on hot-dog fat content. Consumer spokesmen have said, however, that supermarket samplings would give housewives a better idea which brands are leanest.

In the Ethiopian city of Harar, the garbage collectors are hyenas, let into the city every night so the animals can devour the garbage left for them outside tightly shut doors.

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — C. Donald Curry, of Newark, was named registrar of motor vehicles by Highway Safety Director Eugene "Pete" O'Grady.

Curry was chief adult probation officer and administrative assistant to the Licking County Common Pleas Court. He headed the Citizens for Gmilling Co. mittee in his home county.

O'Grady said Curry's salary had not yet been set, but that it would be less than the $17,888 that Republican Fred Rice was receiving when he left the post Monday.

Toledo Drug Abuse Center Opens Friday

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The Toledo Drug Abuse Center of the Ohio Department of Mental Hygiene and Correction's Bureau of Drug Abuse will open officially Friday at 10 a.m.

The new center is at 1621 Dorr Street, the third such methadone treatment center to be put in operation by the state. Two more centers will be opened in Dayton and Cleveland, and others are planned for Akron, Cincinnati and Mansfield. Centers are already operating in Columbus and Youngstown.

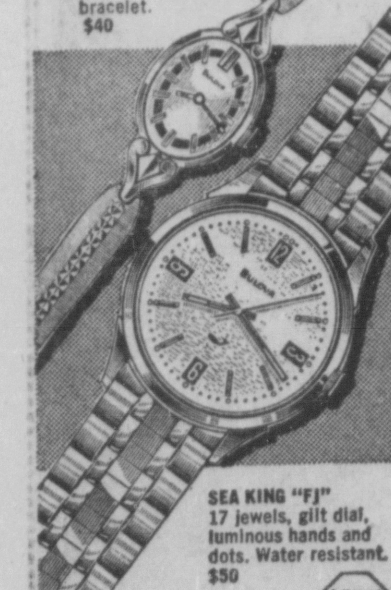

The Rev. Lyman Higgins, pastor of the Warren African Methodist Episcopal Church has been named acting director of the Toledo center.

A minimum of 400 hardcore narcotic addicts are expected to be treated in the center during the first year of operation, said Dr. Alan E. Zimmer, assistant chief of the state bureau.

Memories Of Biblical Days Abound In Palestine Area

By GUY H. LEATHERWOOD

December 24, 1970 — From Jerusalem to Jericho the road descends rapidly to 1200 feet below sea level. This is a drop of 3700 feet in approximately 20 miles and the Dead Sea near here is the lowest point on earth.

Parts of the old Roman Highway can still be seen although we traveled a modern highway about 11 years old, past the Good Samaritan Inn (ruins about 1200 AD).

One can easily imagine robbers hiding out in this rough terrain which resembles parts of Arizona or New Mexico. No wonder Jesus used it as a locale for the parable of the Good Samaritan. It could be used to film a western movie and the terrain would be fitting.

Bethany is the small village just off the Jericho road and a short distance from Jerusalem. The exact place where Jesus spent many pleasant hours with Martha and Mary and their brother Lazarus is not known but the locale is narrowed to a very small area. Tablets marked the supposed area of their home and environs and we know that we have been where Jesus was a frequent visitor.

LAZARUS' tomb is nearby and we descended through narrow passageways through the stone to a chamber at the bottom. It was necessary to practically slide into the tomb from a final narrow passageway. How the Bible lives here in Palestine!

Shepherds were watching their flocks in the fields along the road. Sometimes the shepherds will mingle their flocks but when the shepherds separate the sheep follow the shepherd as they know his voice. Rather than drive the sheep it is interesting that they follow him.

In the distance one could see the mountain where Joshua commanded the sun to stand still while he finished the battle. The Mount of Temptation, a very high mountain indeed, overlooks the city of Jericho.

This is the mountain where Satan tempted Jesus. Excavations of the walls of Jericho can be seen. As Bible students will remember, Joshua marched around the walls of Jericho and they came tumbling down.

However the walls that one can see are the original walls as Jericho was not rebuilt on the original site after Joshua burned the city. Elisha had been in Jericho and the spring not flowing with water was healed (II Kings 2:19-22) I was not able to get a very good picture of the spring as a truck was getting water there. Jericho is considered the oldest city in the world.

Jericho is mentioned in the Bible concerning the arrival of the Children of Israel to the Promised Land. Before crossing the Jordan, Joshua sent two spies to Jericho and they were sheltered by Rahab (Joshua 2).

Near here the children of Israel entered the Promised Land and across the Jordan one can see the Mountains of Moab where Moses could see the promised land but where he was not permitted to enter. There God buried Moses and no one knows to this day where that place is.

The Dead Sea is the lowest spot on the surface of the globe. It is 1292 feet below sea level compared to Death Valley in California at 280 feet below sea level. The Jordan River flows into it and there is no outlet. Twenty five per cent of the water is solid substance of which seven per cent is salt.

The water is so heavy that it is difficult to swim and you can't sink — only float. The Sea is slowly drying up as more water is being taken from the Jordan for irrigation purposes.

Land near the Dead Sea is being reclaimed for agricultural purposes. It is being "washed" and certain crops which remove salt are grown on it for three years. It is irrigated and according to prophecy it is "blooming like a rose." The land is very fertile.

This land of Canaan is truly a land of "milk and honey." Large fruits and vegetables are being produced and we were told that the Bible had been studied to get clues as to where to plant different crops. As it did thousands of years ago these same crops are produced today.

In Jericho there are many fruit markets, selling some fabulous size lemons and other citrus fruits. A sycamore tree, a lone type of the kind that Zaccheus climbed is growing in Jericho and we were able to get a picture of it.

THE site of the Dead Sea scrolls — where they were found, called Qumran, is an interesting site indeed. It is believed that this place was sacked by the Roman Legions a year before the destruction of the Temple 68-9 A.D. The Essenes were probably massacred and upon the approach of the Romans probably hid the scrolls in the caves so that they would not be found by the Romans.

We visited the museum where they are today along with the jar in which they were found. We were told that all the Books of the Old Testament had been found with the exception of the Book of Esther. I understand that this is the only Book in the Old Testament where God's name does not appear.

Winding up a beautiful Christmas eve we attended the services sponsored by the Lutheran Church at Shepherd's Field at Bethlehem. There was a flock of sheep with the Shepherd in native attire adjoining the meeting ground. This provided a very interesting setting for these services.

In the chill of the evening we felt that we could bridge the centuries as we sang "Oh Little Town of Bethlehem," "Hark the Herald Angels Sing," and "Silent Night." The speaker was very eloquent and he mentioned that one could easily see that there is no peace.

Soldiers well armed are in Bethlehem. Men in many nations have not accepted the Prince of Peace.

Adjoining the Shepherd's fields are the field where Ruth reaped "in the fields of Boaz." This of course is the setting for the beautiful love story recorded in the Book of Ruth.

The Children's Corner

EDITOR'S NOTE: The Pickaway County Public Library has a section devoted to books for children. Volumes recently added to the Children's Library are reviewed here.

Is there a reluctant dragon in your house? Does your boy refuse to read anything more involved than the funny paper? Want to pique his imagination? Some day you will find a frog in his pocket. Leave a copy of "Mike's Toads" where he is bound to stumble upon it.

In this book, he will find something of the fascination which reptiles seem to hold for most boys. Glen Rounds, famous illustrator of the old West, has done the pictures for Mary Q. Steele, who wrote the story. It is an entertaining yarn about the consequences of rash promises, especially when they are made for other people. In desperation, his family makes him carry them out, himself. Mike grows up a lot the summer he takes care of toads for his brother's friend. In the process, he learns about the differences between toads and frogs, and finds a strange new friend. Good for older boys and girls.

He might like "The Mystery of Stone Henge." If he doesn't, you will. Here Frank M. Branley explores the enigma of this ancient architectural achievement of England. First, he describes the land on which it is situated, and the massive stones which must have been transported long distances. Then he muses about the enormous difficulties of erecting the structure. He estimated that

See Accord In Newark Police Strike

NEWARK, Ohio (AP) — Police reached a tentative understanding with city officials late Wednesday, ending a six-day "sick-in" that left Newark virtually without police protection.

Police voted unanimously to return to work after the city agreed to the creation of a commission within 60 days to study police wage demands and make recommendations to city council.

Police have asked for $416 a year in hazardous duty pay, cost-of-living increases and a $1,000 pay hike.

Newark officials agreed to the $1,000 increase in salary, but balked at the other demands.

The settlement came one day after the city had mailed each striking officer on the 66-man force a letter advising him to present medical proof of his illness if he wished to recover pay for his time off the job.

Newark authorities were also said to have been considering legal action against the policemen for walking off the job.

Mayor James Alexander declared his city in a state of emergency last Friday shortly after the work stoppage began.

He also requested Gov. John J. Gilligan send Ohio National Guard troops to the area to prevent a possible "breakdown of law and order."

Gilligan refused the request for troop assistance Tuesday saying the situation did not warrant a call-up.

Nixon Gives Views On 'Youth In Society'

SAN CLEMENTE Calif. (AP) — President Nixon, heading back to Washington, gives his views on "Youth in our Society" today in a campus appearance at the University of Nebraska.

Nixon decided to stop at the university in Lincoln because Nebraska's football team was rated No. 1 in the nation by the Associated Press poll.

While aides said the chief executive would take the occasion to congratulate the gridiron Cornhuskers they placed greater emphasis on the fact that Nixon would be talking to a faculty-student audience of more than 10,000 about young people and their role in American society.

"I am quite sure it will be an important speech," said Deputy Press Secretary Gerald L. Warren.

Nixon was urged to visit the Nebraska campus by Secretary of Agriculture Clifford M. Hardin, former chancellor of the university. Hardin was flying to Lincoln from Washington to meet his boss.

In Lincoln, two university student leaders who accepted an invitation to share the platform with Nixon, said they would wear black arm bands in the "hope that our presence will not be construed as support for the President."

Steve Tiwald, president of the student body, and Ken Wald, head of a campus honorary group called the Innocents Society, said in a joint statement that they did not endorse the President's policies, but did not elaborate.

They said they would not applaud the President and urged other students to refrain from "loud and persistent heckling."

Several groups, including the Mothers for Peace, Lancaster County Welfare Rights Organization, Veterans for Peace and Nebraska Council to Repeal the Draft, indicated they would gather outside the 10,000-seat coliseum to protest the President's policies on the Vietnam war, welfare and housing.

Aides said Nixon spent much of Wednesday in the study of his seaside home at San Clemente preparing the speech in collaboration with Raymond K. Price, chief of the White House speech-writing team.

In the afternoon, the President drove alone to the Concordia Elementary School near his home. Associates said he went because he had received cards on his 58th birthday Saturday from members of the fourth- and fifth-grade classes.

Flying to Lincoln from Southern California with the President and Mrs. Nixon were Republican Sen. and Mrs. Roman Hruska of Nebraska. The senator had been here on business.

Nixon's last appearance before a collegiate audience was Sept. 16 at Kansas State University where he faced a vocal minority of antiwar hecklers. But from most of the audience.

Today's was the President's fourth address to a campus crowd since taking office.

On Friday, Nixon will make another speech—in Washington —at ceremonies dedicating the Dwight D. Eisenhower Center, a Republican party office building near the Capitol.

sympathy to the family.

Mr. Dennis was the last of the family of that name (Dennis) who settled in this area in the early 1800s.

Sympathy is extended to the family of Mr. V. Dayton Sheets (age 58), who died Monday a.m. at his home near Ashville. Mr. Sheets had been principal of Scioto Elementary school for the past several years.

Mrs. Carrie (Harsh) Lamb, one of our former Golden Agers, who is now a resident of the First Community Village of Columbus, spent a restful holiday season, of which we all are glad. Her daughter, Mrs. K. E. Dountz reports that she remains in good spirits, and remembers her friends "back home."

Mr. Robert Farrell of Rio Del, Calif., is a visitor in the community at the present time. He was formerly with the Fortuna Veneer Co., and expects to buy a company in this vicinity soon, and move his wife and six children to our community. He reports he left California last Saturday a.m. with temperature in the 50's and arrived in Columbus Saturday p.m. with a temperature of 28 degrees.

Flag-Burning Case Closed

DELAWARE, Ohio (AP) — An American flag-burning incident in a classroom was closed here Tuesday night after a teacher, suspended for a month, was reinstated by school authorities.

Mary Ann Brohard, the 25-year-old speech and English teacher at Olentangy High School, was reinstated after she apologized for the incident and agreed to forfeit her pay for the 30-day suspension period.

She had been accused of permitting a student Robert Brown, 17, to burn the flag in a classroom Dec. 8, during the latter's speech on the flag's use and abuse. Several hundred students had petitioned the school board to reinstate Miss Brohard. The student was suspended for 10 days.

Data Shows Education Gap Between Cities, Suburbs

WASHINGTON (AP) — A wide educational gap has opened between the nation's central-city and suburban dwellers, the Census Bureau says.

Not only do more suburbanites complete high school, they achieve a higher level of education than the more deprived residents of the inner city, the report shows.

About half those over 24 years old living inside the 30 large cities surveyed failed to complete four years of high school, while 37 per cent of the more affluent suburban dwellers failed to get a high school diploma.

Although the study uses 1967 population figures, Census officials said, more up-to-date tabulation "show about the same kind of gap, with a general up-grading in both areas."

One reason for the difference, the report said, is "the fact that a smaller proportion of whites than of Negroes and persons of other races live in the central cities and that persons of Negro and other races have a lower educational attainment than whites."

Report Reds Use Cambodia For Resting And Training

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. military analysts say Communists are trying to convert two Cambodian provinces into sanctuaries for training and resting their soldiers.

The provinces are mountainous Pursat and Battam Bang, a major rice-producing area which lie along Thailand's border far to the west of the old Communist sanctuaries invaded last spring by U.S. and allied forces from South Vietnam.

Communist control of this area, according to analysts, could result in serious food shortages in Cambodia and increase the threat to Thailand, already troubled by enemy insurgency in its northeastern provinces, and North Vietnamese advances in northern Laos.

U.S. officials fear the enemy may close off Highway 5, the main route between the capital city of Phnom Penh and Battam Bang. Phnom Penh already is short of fuel because the enemy has cut Highway 4 leading to the port of Kampong Son on the Gulf of Siam.

The enemy's dry season military objectives are being assessed as U.S. officials indicate growing concern over whether Cambodia can survive militarily.

Analysts do not expect a widespread enemy offensive in Cambodia, but look for a campaign by the North Vietnamese to encircle Cambodian cities gradually by cutting lines of communication and exploiting rural areas, intensifying pressure on key locations such as Kompong Thom, Siem Reap and Phnom Penh.

Communists are expected also to begin building their own native military-government structure in the countryside.

The enemy's dry season campaign, say U.S. intelligence experts, will focus on buttressing control in Stung Treng and Kratie provinces, through which the vital Mekong River supply route passes from southern Laos.

A Communist objective in southern Laos, at the same time, will be assuring control of the eastern part of the Bolovens Plateau, and adjoining areas, through which the Se Kong River flows. This, too, is a major link in the enemy supply route from North Vietnam.

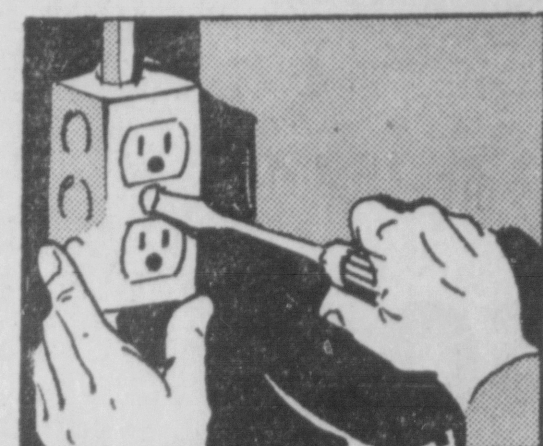

Enemy successes along Highway 4 have demonstrated what they can achieve with minimum forces, say analysts. The Cambodian army, despite an infusion of American arms and bolstering by South Vietnamese veterans, still is rated far below the battle-seasoned North Vietnamese and Viet Cong.

CAMPERS — Members of Boy Scout Troop 205 are shown at the conclusion of their winter campout at the DuPont Recreation Area, Jan. 10. Scoutmaster Hal Whitfield and 25 scouts made the five mile hike from Circleville to the campsite. Campfire activities were highlighted by scouts Tom Hamilton and Kirk Knecht's talk on their efforts to gain Eagle rank.

Tigers Battle Trace

It will be a must win game for Circleville Friday night when the Tigers host the Panthers of Miami Trace in an all important South Central Ohio League clash.

Circleville trails Wilmington by one game in the league and needs a win over Miami to stay close. Wilmington will be at Washington in what has to be considered a must game for the Hurricane.

Trace comes to town sporting a 2-2 record in the league and a 4-6 mark for the season with consecutive wins over Greenfield and London to its credit.

The Panthers have good size and have bench strength to go with it. They utilize a 2-3 high post offense paced by their fine forward, Steve Bihl. On defense they use a tight 1-2-2 and like to switch into a full court zone press.

THE probable starting lineup for Miami will be Reno, 5-foot-11, and Ankrom, 6-foot, at the guards, Blake, 6-foot-2 at center and Hedgebeth, 6-foot-1, and Bihl, 6-foot-2, at the forwards.

The flu bug has hit the Tigers this week with John Hunt, Don Valentine and Randy Sprout being bitten. However, all three are expected to be ready for Friday night.

Coach John Lawhorn will go with a starting lineup that will find Jim Neal and Terry Morrison at the guards, John Hunt at center and Tom Bowers and Dave Truex at the forward posts.

Tiger coaches selected John Hunt and Dave Truex as offensive players of the week and named Don Valentine and Tom Bowers as defensive players of the week.

"We were proud of the way our club bounced back against Franklin Heights after a disappointing loss at Wilmington," Circleville Coach John Lawhorn stated.

"It is the sign of poised young men with a great deal of pride in their club and themselves," Lawhorn continued.

CIRCLEVILLE is 3-1 in the SCOL and 7-2 for the season. Both losses came at the hands of AAA schools. They are averaging 71.3 points a game while limiting the opposition to 63.1 per cent.

Hunt is pacing the Tigers with a 23.1 point average per game. Truex is averaging 16.3, Morrison 13.2, Valentine 9.4, Bowers 7.6, Greg Roll 2.0, Jim Neal 1.3 and Kent Wolfe 1.0.

The big rebounders for the Red and Black are Hunt with 119 and Truex has pulled down 87. Morrison's 24 assists leads the team in that category.

The Tigers are shooting at a 44.6 per cent clip from the field. Hunt is hitting at a 53 per cent rate, Bowers 50 per cent, Morrison 49 per cent, Truex 41 per cent, Valentine 32 per cent and Neal 57 per cent.

Circleville has a 65 per cent conversion rate at the foul stripe with Bowers leading the way with 23 of 26 for 88 per cent.

The Tiger reserves are 4-5 for the season and are showing improvement each week.

John Brodie Faces NFL Grand Jury

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — San Francisco 49ers' quarterback John Brodie was expected to testify today before a federal grand jury here investigating the National Football League for possible antitrust violations.

Controversial quarterback Joe Namath of the New York Jets and New Orleans Saints' tight end Dave Parks appeared before the jury Wednesday and were critical of the powers of NFL owners and of Commissioner Pete Rozelle.

"There is no doubt about antitrust violations," Namath told newsmen. "They (the jury) asked for my opinion and I told them."

He cited the common draft of college players and standard player contract as examples of antitrust violations, saying, "A college player may not be happy about being drafted by a certain club, but he can't do anything about it. The same with a player who's not happy with his contract."

Namath said the jury asked him "about owners, players, coaches and the commissioner. They asked most about the option clause." The 27-year-old quarterback, who led the Jets to victory over the Baltimore Colts in the 1969 Super Bowl, would not say whether the jurors questioned him about his controversy with Rozelle in 1969 over Namath's part-ownership in the Bachelor's III Lounge, a New York night club.

Namath said that he was looking at the NFL "only from one side. . . the side of a player," and admitted that "looking at it from the owner's viewpoint," he thought that club owners deserved the right to do what was necessary to run their teams.

Asked if he thought owners or Rozelle should be jailed or convicted of antitrust violations, Namath said, "I don't know about that. It's above me."

Parks, 29, said the jury queried him on his transfer from the San Francisco 49ers to the Saints in 1968.

Tiny New Athens A Cage Power

By GOERGE STRODE Associated Press Sports Writer COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Undismayed by only 13 boys available for football, tiny New Athens Franklin is developing into one of Ohio's small school basketball powers this season.

School officials decided against football last fall after only 13 players were left at the close of the 1969 season for the Harrison County school in the heart of Eastern Ohio's coal country.

New Athens Franklin has only 32 boys in school. Third-year Coach Jack Bernosky says most of them are associated with basketball in some capacity.

All five starters are averaging in double figures, leading the No. 2 ranking in The Associated Press Class A poll this week.

Around the state: Steubenville 7-0 this season, has won 21 of its last 31 games. A substitute, Courtney Snyder scored 16 points to lead the Big Red to its latest conquest.

Larry Jordan, Class A player of the year in 1964 with South-eastern of Ross County, returned to his alma mater to coach this season, and has the team off to a 12-0 beginning in Class AA.

Frontier, a Washington County power, hopes to have 6-foot-5 ace Mike Jarvis for the tournaments. Jarvis broke his leg in two places in a New Year's Eve car accident.

Sebring, seventh in Class A, whipped two unbeaten AA powers last week, Poland 63-55 and Columbiana 52-51. All Ohio quarterback Rich Bevely is a starter for Youngstown North.

Champion and Liberty, two Northeastern standouts, play a two-game series on neutral courts. The first is at Warren Western Reserve Saturday night, the other at Warren Harding.

Portsmouth, off to its best start in three seasons under former Northwestern University mentor Bob Doll, has lost only to Kentucky power Ashland in eight starts.

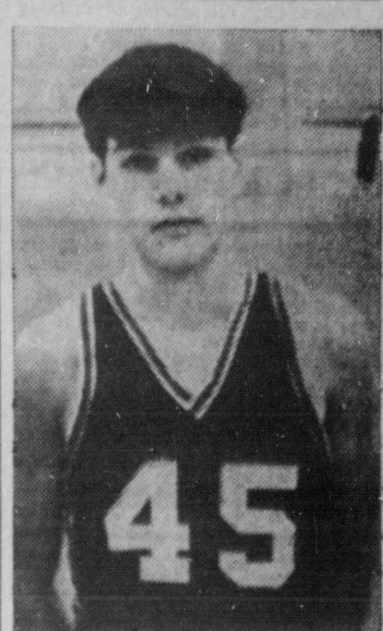

Mechanicsburg, second-ranked in Class A football last fall, starts four of five gridders in basketball. Beaver Creek's only loss (10-1) was to defending AA king Dayton Chaminade, struggling through a 5-5 campaign.

Where the pro Cleveland Cavaliers failed, Cleveland Beachwood has succeeded with a human skull as a good-luck charm on its bench. Eric Packer and Rich Levin put the skull on Beachwood's bench and the team won 65-56 over Middlefield Cardinal. Beachwood had lost its six games by 25 points.

St. Ignatius, the Cleveland West Senate leader with an 8-0 record, has nipped Cleveland Hayes twice by one point. East Tech owns a 8-0 mark to lead the East Senate.

Steve Scott, a 5-10 junior averaging 18 points for Granville, is the son of Denison University Coach Dick Scott. Licking Valley's Steve Martin, with his 33.2 average, is far ahead of the Licking County record of 27.1. Canton Lehman, fourth in Class AA with a 9-0 record, reached the Athens Class AA Regional finals before losing to Waverly last year after Waverly had nipped Columbus Walnut Ridge in a semifinal contest.

BRAVE — Doug Barnett (45) is a member of the Logan Elm High School basketball team. Barnett is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Lowery, Route 4.

Cowboy Coach Don Landry Takes 'Physical Approach'

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (AP) — Ask most professional football fans for their opinion of Dallas Cowboy Coach Tom Landry and the most frequent description would be that he's an emotionless human-computer.

At times Landry keeps this false theory afloat.

Like when he's asked about the big Dallas turnaround Landry answers: "Well, the players started playing relaxed."

Asked if this came from the head coach, he said "I never relax."

At 46 Landry is the dean of the National Football League coaches with 11 years' service as the only headmaster the Cowboys have ever known.

He is indeed a football genius. Landry invented the 4-3 defensive alignment as an assistant coach for the New York Giants. And when he came to Dallas as coach in 1960, Landry began work with castoffs and suffered through an 0-11-1 season.

Dallas now, has a 77-69-6 record in the Landry years, including five consecutive playoff trips and now a Super Bowl game with Baltimore.

Landry's physical appearance itself is stoic.

But cold Landry is not. He can be quick with a quip and has a good sense of humor.

This has been the toughest and yet most fruitful year for Landry, who took what he admits was a gamble and turned Dallas from a finesse team into a physical, run-oriented club this year.

The gamble stemmed from a questionnaire he sent out during the summer which frankly asked the players what they thought was wrong with Dallas' failure in the playoffs.

"It gave me an insight into their mental attitude," Landry said.

He said most of the players agreed Dallas needed to take it more physically to their opponents.

Landry decided that's what had to be done and he stepped on toes to do it. He set performance levels and even if your name was Bob Hayes, Craig Morton or Ralph Neely, you could find yourself on the bench if you weren't putting out. And that's what happened early in the season.

Things got bad. The Cowboys sank to 5-4 on Nov. 16 after a 38-0 whipping by St. Louis.

Defensive line coach Ernie Stautner said "Tom wasn't surprised. He had warned us this was coming. He said this team would sink and would either show character or stay under. It happened. . . and thank goodness they showed the character he thought they would."

Dallas won its last seven consecutive games.

Top College Cage Stars Hold Position

NEW YORK (AP) — College basketball scoring leader Johnny Neumann of Mississippi premier rebounder Artis Gilmore of Jacksonville and top free shooter Greg Lowery of Texas Tech retained their No. 1 positions this week although their averages suffered a bit.

Neumann, a sophomore last week, was averaging 44.4 points per game but dipped to 42.4 according to figures released today by the National Collegiate Sports Services but it was still good enough to keep Neumann comfortably ahead of runner-up Austin Carr of Notre Dame with a 38.6 average.

Gilmore tumbled from third to ninth in scoring but the 7-foot-2 star's 24.6 rebounds per game—down slightly from 25.8 a week ago—left him well ahead of Kermitt Washington of American University at 21.7.

Lowery slipped from .920 to .908 at the charity line. Bobby Rollins of Southern Methodist with an .894 average held off John Roche of South Carolina at .890 for second place.

Tom Bush of Drake last week's leading field goal shooter at .688 hit only six of 24 shots from the floor in his past two games and plummeted to 11th place.

Penbrooke Burrows of Jacksonville inherited the lead with a .746 average.

Jacksonville 9-2 remained the nation's top offensive team with 107.4 points per game and Army shooting for an unprecedented fourth successive title as the best defensive squad moved ahead of last week's leader Fairleigh-Dickinson by limiting opponents to 56.3 points per game.

But cold Landry is not. He can be quick with a quip and has a good sense of humor.

Cincy Reds Choose 7 New Players

CINCINNATI (AP) — The Cincinnati Reds went after Ed Tobin, Ed Munoz and Brian Williams in baseball's winter draft in New York Wednesday and got them.

Tobin, a left-handed hitter from Shreveport, La., was their first pick; Munoz of Corpus Christi, Tex., was the second selection and Williams of Cynthiana, Ky., was tabbed in the third round. All three players are 19. Tobin and Munoz are outfielders and Williams is an outfielder-first baseman.

Cincinnati also picked four other players in the regular phase of the draft. They were pitcher Michael Pfitzer, 19, of Scottsdale, Ariz.; Charles Haymes, 18, an outfielder - second baseman from Chicago; Thomas Rima, 19, an outfielder from Decorah, Iowa; and pitcher Dan Hinzman, 19, of Lake Mills, Wis.

The Reds selected three outfielders, one pitcher and one catcher in the secondary phase. The selections were also announced at a party here where the Reds showed film of the 1970 World Series which they lost to Baltimore four games to one.

General Manager Bob Howsam of the Reds expressed confidence that not only would Cincinnati be back in the World Series this year but it would win this time.

One of the guests at the party of newsmen and members of the Reds official family remarked before the movie that "I don't think I will like this any better tonight than I did last October."

Kentucky Defeats Floridians, 133-117

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
The Floridians couldn't reach high enough for the ball and, when they did, couldn't hold onto it often enough. And that was enough to drop them back into the cellar in the American Basketball Association East.

Kentucky's 133-117 romp over the Floridians was Wednesday night's only ABA contest. The National Basketball Association was idle.

In Memoriam

In loving memory of my daughter
Beverly Mettler, who passed away
one year ago today.
Gone is the sunshine of your smile.
Gone are the little things that made life worth while.
Although I know you're at rest and
God knows best,
But how I miss you more as time goes by no one will ever know.
Sadly missed by mother

AN ORDINANCE NO. 118-70

FIXING SALARIES OF THE POLICE DEPARTMENT AND FIXING HOURLY WAGES FOR THE CIVILIAN RADIO OPERATORS, THE CLERK-TYPISTS OF THE POLICE DEPARTMENT AND THE METER MAID, AND TO DECLARE AN EMERGENCY.

WHEREAS, it is deemed necessary to introduce an ordinance regulating the salaries of the Police Chief, Sergeants, and patrolmen, and regulating the hourly wages for the civilian Radio Operators, the Clerk-Typist and the Meter Maid and to declare an emergency.

WHEREAS, by ordinances previously enacted, it has been ordained by the Council of the City of Circleville, State of Ohio, that the Police Department of the City of Circleville, Ohio shall be composed of the following officers and other members:

1. A Chief of Police
2. Twelve (12) Sergeants
3. Thirteen (13) Patrolmen

AND WHEREAS, by ordinances previously enacted, it has been ordained by the Council of the City of Circleville, Ohio, the amount of bond that the Chief of Police and other officers and patrolmen shall furnish before entering upon their duties:

NOW THEREFORE, be it ordained by the Council of the City of Circleville, State of Ohio, that the salary of the Chief of Police shall be $8,304.00 per annum, payable in equal semi-monthly installments on the First and Fifteenth days of each calendar month.

SECTION II: That beginning with the First day of January, 1971, the salary of the Police Sergeants shall be as follows:

During the Ninety (90) day probationary period immediately after being promoted to the rank of sergeant, a Police Sergeant shall receive pay at the rate of $7,970.00 per annum, payable in equal semi-monthly installments on the First and Fifteenth days of each calendar month. Upon completion of the probationary period of 90 days, a Police Sergeant shall receive pay at the rate of $8,120.00 per annum, payable in equal semi-monthly installments on the First and Fifteenth days of each calendar month.

SECTION III: That the salaries of Patrolmen shall be as follows:

beginning with the First day of January, 1971, the salary of a Patrolman shall be $6,438.72 per annum, payable in equal semi-monthly installments on the First and Fifteenth days of each calendar month. Upon completion of One Year of service in the Police Department, as a Police Sergeant, a Police Sergeant shall receive pay at the rate of $7,201.20 per annum, payable in equal semi-monthly installments on the First and Fifteenth days of each calendar month.

SECTION IV: That the rate of pay per hour for all Policemen below the rank of Chief, for hours worked in excess of 40 hours per week, shall be at the rate of time and one-half.

SECTION V: That the Police Department as constituted herein shall be classified by the Director of Public Safety as required by law.

SECTION VI: That beginning on the First day of January, 1971, in addition to the classified Civil Service employees of the Police Department as provided for herein, the Director of Public Safety of the City of Circleville, Ohio is hereby authorized to employ two (2) Radio Operators for the Police Department, one to work during the hours from 8:00 o'clock P.M. to 11:00 o'clock P.M. of each day of the calendar year, and one to work during the hours from 11:00 o'clock P.M. to 7:00 A.M. of each day of the calendar year, and each of them to be paid at the hourly rate of $2.38 per hour for the hours worked during each semi-monthly pay period, which pay periods shall be on the First and Fifteenth days of each calendar month.

SECTION VII: That beginning on the first day of January, 1971, in addition to the classified Civil Service employees of the Police Department and the non-classified employees of the Police Department as provided for herein, the Director of Public Safety of the City of Circleville, Ohio is hereby authorized to employ a Clerk-Typist who shall be paid at the hourly rate of $2.15 per hour for the hours worked during each semi-monthly pay period which pay period shall be on the First and Fifteenth days of each calendar month.

SECTION VIII: That beginning on the First day of January, 1971, the salary of the Parking Meter Attendant shall be at the rate of $273.00 per month, payable in semi-monthly installments on the First and Fifteenth days of each calendar month.

SECTION IX: That all portions of previous ordinances pertaining to salaries and wages of all Civil Service and Civilian personnel in the Police Department shall hereby be rescinded.

SECTION X: Council declares this to be an emergency ordinance necessary for the preservation of the public peace, health and safety, such emergency being necessary in order to provide for the pay increases provided for herein, and shall take effect immediately upon its passage.

"The Changing of the Guard"

On Monday, January 11, 1971, in Columbus, Ohio, a man will raise his right hand, recite a few words, and begin to live his dream — four years as governor of one of the nation's most prosperous and populous states. At that same instant, another man's endeavors will come to an end, his eight years of achievements, ideas, and goals left for those who will follow — to be fulfilled or to be replaced. One man will enter ... another man exit: for Ohioans, it's "THE CHANGING OF THE GUARD."

In timeliness and relevance, "THE CHANGING OF THE GUARD" is a program of tremendous interest to every citizen of Ohio.
